

Will You Try Something New to Develop Your Leadership Skills?

Have virtual workshops failed to deliver a lasting impact on your skills?

Is Hybrid working leaving you 'always-on' and looking for ways to make it work better for you and your team?

Do you want to develop better self awareness to improve your personal impact?

If the answer is yes to any of these questions then read on...

How It Works...

In a world first we have combined multiple Leadership development techniques to develop your skills on the course AND in the boardroom.

We use practical learning techniques for hands on learners, to get to grips with leadership concepts while playing their favourite hobby.

Our programme centres around the concept of developing your whole self, using golf as the basis for considering wider Leadership concepts.

You can then take the methods and models you learn on the course and apply them in the boardroom.

Strategic Leadership At Moor Park

Our Moor Park event takes place in the same month the British Open qualifiers are hosted on the course.

On this day we will look at key elements of developing a strategic mindset and how you and your organisation's strengths and weaknesses need to be a key factor in that strategy.

The key golf focus for the day will be the strategy you use around the greens with your short game. There are often many ways to achieve your desired outcome and it's in this area we will find similarities to the boardroom.

Self Awareness & Personal Impact At The Centurion Club

Our Centurion Club event takes place the week after the world's best women golfers compete here in the Aramco Team Series.

The modern working environment often leads senior leaders to receive a lack of feedback from their teams and peers on how effective they are and the impact they make on their teams.

At Centurion we will focus on developing your personal awareness through the use of a whole swing analysis and a series of simple repeatable techniques.
